26 Jap Ships K.O.'d In Bitter Triple Battle

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 26 (AP)—More than 26 Japanese warships were sunk or heavily damaged in the three-pronged battle of the Philippines, incomplete reports on the most crushing defeat ever administered the modern Japanese navy disclosed today. Wreckage strewn waters marked the possible end of the imperial fleet as a major obstacle in the path to the coasts of Japan and China, and probably shortened the Pacific war by months.

Combined reports of Adm. Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur on the three major engagements involving the bulk of the Japanese fleet listed these known results:

Eight Japanese ships sunk—two carriers, one battleship, five cruisers.

Three probably sunk—Two battleships, one carrier.

More than 15 damaged—Seven battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers and "several" more destroyers.

Both commanders made it clear their final reports would show heavier Japanese losses, particularly in ships sunk. Today's combined total compared with Nimitz' first report of the three-way action listing one carrier sunk, two damaged and five or six battleships and a cruiser torpedoed.

All of these, with the possible exception of two battleships, are included in the combined total.

The crushing three-fold defeat stripped Emperor Hirohito's navy of the greater part of its known carrier, battleship and cruiser power, necessary to engage the U. S. fleet in another major action or seriously check its further incursions into the western Pacific.

During the three-day battles the fate of MacArthur's invasion hung in the balance. This was the touchstone that brought the Japanese fleet out of hiding and precipitated one of the greatest engagements in naval history involving almost every type of warship from battleships to PT boats and submarines, and sea-borne and land-based planes.

By comparison, in the greatest previous Japanese defeat since Pearl Harbor, two Japanese ships were sunk and nine sunk or damaged in the Battle of Midway in June 1942. Five of these were transports.

Known American losses in the running battles around the Philippines were two small carriers and a number of PT boats sunk, plus an unannounced number damaged.

Nimitz' report today was limited to two engagements—an overwhelmingly one-sided victory over the largest Japanese task force, trapped south of Formosa by U. S. carrier planes, warships and submarines; and a crucial air-sea engagement fought northeast of Leyte off Samar Island and in the Sibuyan Sea.

MacArthur previously reported on the third action at the southern entrance to Leyte Gulf. Japanese naval communiques admitted the loss of one battleship, two cruisers, 1 destroyer and substantial damage to another battleship.

Most of the destruction was inflicted on a Japanese force caught south of Formosa, Nimitz said, "with no damage to our ships."

Previously Nimitz had reported the loss of the light cruiser Princeton and MacArthur announced the sinking of an escort carrier from the Seventh Fleet covering his amphibious landings on Leyte.

The Imperial task force caught near Formosa in the Philippine sea was attacked by a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines for a day and a night.

Enemy aircraft flew out from the Philippines in a futile attempt to rescue the trapped Japanese task force. The Japanese finally escaped under cover of a black night.

It is an historic victory. But there was one hour Wednesday morning, as two Japanese battleship groups emerged on the east side of the Philippines and approached Leyte Gulf, when the fate of Gen. MacArthur and his men hung in the balance.

Then it was that V. Adm. Kinkaid made a daring decision. Despite numerical inferiority as a group, he boldly divided his Seventh Fleet and an Australian squadron, sent them in different directions and won both battles.

One Japanese force of at least two battleships, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser and four destroyers, after moving across the Sulu sea, passed through the Surigao straits to move against Kinkaid from the southwest.

One half of Kinkaid's Seventh took on this group first Wednesday.

For 25 minutes, the opposing warships exchanged broadsides and American destroyers darted in for close strikes.

Kinkaid's bold move on this end was carried out with extremely light losses—several PT boats sunk or damaged, one destroyer damaged.

The other battle broke out a little later off Samar.

A Japanese naval force which included four battleships, several cruisers and destroyers, after crossing the Sibuyan sea, slipped between Luzon and Samar, then moved down toward the Leyte scene and started shelling one of the escort carrier groups of Kinkaid.

The admiral's carrier planes combined with carrier planes of another group in such fierce attacks that the enemy armada had to turn back north. Several cruisers and destroyers were sunk, three battleships, three cruisers and some destroyers were badly damaged.

But Kinkaid's cost was heavier this time. One escort carrier went down, other carriers as well as destroyers were damaged.

PHILIPPINES NAVAL BATTLE—American planes today are pounding remnants of the Jap fleet which attempted to strike into Leyte Gulf through the Surigao strait and was driven off, fleeing through the Camotes sea (2) west of Leyte. Other units are following up the heavier Jap fleet which came through the San Bernardino straits (1) to strike at our carrier force northeast of Samar Islands, and is now retreating through the straits. No word has come from third action northeast of Luzon (3).

Crushing Blow for Japs

By WARREN COWLEY

The only two official communiques bearing upon the great naval battle of the Philippines, give the following picture:

The Japanese sent into the battle a minimum total of 10 battleships, 3 aircraft carriers, 16 cruisers and about 30 destroyers. The toll of heavy ships is elsewhere reported.

The toll of destroyers and cruisers will be greatly enlarged in future advices and it may be that not a single ship of the enemy escaped sinking or severe damage. Several of the surviving capital ships, hard hit and slowed down, will undoubtedly be later listed as sunk.

It is possible now to develop a clearer over-all picture of the attack.

The Jap divided his fleet to converge on Leyte in three main forces. These were disposed as follows:

Force A: 4 battleships, 10 cruisers, 13 destroyers approaching through the Sibuyan Sea and San Bernardino Strait to attack

Carrier Planes Rip Fleeing Jap Ships

By FRANK ROBERTSON

ABOARD ADM. KINKAID'S FL AGSHIP, OFF LEYTE, Philippines, Oct. 26 (INS)—Remaining units of two Japanese naval forces which for a time seriously threatened Gen. MacArthur's invasion of Leyte island, are being pursued and attacked today by American carrier planes ranging over inland Philippine waters.

Vice-Adm. Kinkaid, commander of the triumphant Seventh Fleet which turned aside the threat of the Japanese imperial fleet told correspondents aboard his flagship that remnants of the two Jap forces which launched a naval pincer against Leyte island have been sighted and are under aerial attack as they flee into the maze of the central Philippines.

The admiral revealed six of the 14 Japanese warships which came through the Surigao straits Wednesday and turned north into the Leyte gulf to launch the southern prong of the pincers, have been sighted moving northward in the Camotes sea, west of Leyte island.

One cruiser and five destroyers were all that remained of the original force of 14 battleships, cruisers and destroyers and these are being attacked by American carrier planes.

Of the northern force of 26 enemy warships, which were given battle east of Samar island Wednesday, 14 surviving Jap ships—almost all damaged—passed westward through San Bernardino straits between Samar and Luzon islands during the night.

Heavy units of Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet carrier forces are attacking these crippled Jap warships, Kinkaid said.

Admiral Kinkaid revealed that the combined force of 40 Japanese warships which moved against Leyte in one of the cleverest naval maneuvers in history, were based at Singapore and it is unlikely, he said, that the enemy has anything more than small scattered units left operable in home waters.

"We have accomplished a naval victory of greatest importance," the admiral said. "The enemy made a bold bid at great risk and if he had succeeded in reaching our beaches he undoubtedly would have destroyed our shipping here and our troops ashore would have been in a very serious situation."

"It is quite remarkable," Adm. Kinkaid added, "that much of the victory was gained by surface and air forces assigned to cover the Leyte landing operations."

thus emphasizing the "David and Goliath" nature of victory which the Seventh Fleet scored over the supposedly superior Japanese forces.

Communique

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 26 (INS)—The following communique was issued by Pacific Fleet headquarters at 5:30 EWT today:

On Oct. 24 (West Longitude date), the enemy carrier task force, which had been sighted in the Philippine sea on the previous afternoon approaching from Japanese home waters, was attacked by a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines of the Pacific Fleet during the day and the following night. Despite their support by enemy aircraft from Luzon, the following damage was inflicted, with no damage to our ships involved in this action:

- One large carrier exploded and sunk.
- One large carrier was severely damaged by bombs and torpedoes and is believed to have sunk.
- One light carrier was definitely sunk.
- Two battleships were probably sunk.
- Two light cruisers were definitely sunk.
- Two battleships, three cruisers and a number of destroyers withdrew to the northward in a damaged condition.

On Oct. 24, a carrier task group of the Third Fleet assisted units of the Seventh Fleet in striking a force of enemy battleships, cruisers and destroyers which had sortied through San Bernardino strait and was attacking escort carriers of the Seventh Fleet off the Leyte gulf. Fragmentary reports available indicate that in co-operation with the aircraft from the escort carriers the following damage was inflicted on this enemy force:

- One heavy cruiser was seen to sink.
- Four battleships were heavily damaged by bombs and left the scene at low speed, trailing oil.

One destroyer was left dead in the water.

About midnight, Oct. 24-25, this enemy force withdrew through the San Bernardino strait in a badly damaged condition. During the night surface ships of the Pacific Fleet sank a cruiser of this enemy force. Pacific Fleet carrier aircraft, on Oct. 25, were continuing to attack this force during its retirement through the Sibuyan sea.

This uncomplete report will be amplified as further details become available.

Allies Tighten East-West Ring

By Associated Press

The German high command said today that Allied forces, striking to clear the last Nazi guns blocking Allied convoys, have landed on the south shore of Beveland Island, where some 11,000 Germans are believed trapped.

The Germans' communique said counter-measures were under way, indicating that amphibious forces already had established a bridgehead on the north side of the Schelde estuary. The communique failed to bear out, however, an earlier report from Berlin that the Allies had landed on neighboring Walcheren island.

The reported landing, which was not immediately confirmed by Allied headquarters, might be another phase of the Allied attack to open Antwerp as a supply port for the invasion of the Reich.

The pace of the Russian invasion of East Prussia slackened, the Red army increased pressure against the northern flank of German defenses around the Polish capital of Warsaw.

British and Canadians in Holland, hammering forward steadily in the drive to rout Germans blocking use of Antwerp's port, tightened the claws of a pincer against Nazis clinging to deltas and islands in southwest Holland, as the British Second army rolled the enemy back all along a 50-mile front from Bergen op Zoom to Hertogenbosch.

British took Ft. Orten, near Hertogenbosch, and reached Zegen, 12 miles southwest of Hertogenbosch and less than a half-mile from Tilburg, on a vital supply line.

Some 50,000 Germans may be wedged between the Dutch battle line and the Maas, and amid indications the Germans would attempt to pull their main forces out of western Holland. Second Army armor cut one escape route across the Maas, one of three bridges leading from the battle zone.

Canadians pushed on against an estimated 11,000 Nazis trapped by the sealing off of the Beveland island cut-off to the mainland.

British Eighth Army troops in Italy drove to within 37 miles of Bologna, at a point five miles from Forlì on the Bologna road. The U. S. Fifth Army battered stiff resistance on the approaches to Bologna.

Greek guerrillas occupied Larissa, less than 100 miles from the northern Greek frontier. The town, a communications center, is on the main railway to the port of Salonika, which the Germans were said to be evacuating.

MacArthur Seals Trap

By MURLIN SPENCER

MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Oct. 26 (AP)—Mud-caked Yankees today slammed shut the southern door of strategic Leyte valley, a potential Japanese death trap, and tightened their stranglehold on Nipponese communications with adjacent islands.

As naval and air units beat off the Japanese fleet threat, the entire American land front moved forward through mud and rain, beneath the cover of supporting aircraft and growing artillery fire. The southernmost of three columns driving into Leyte Valley, where Japanese defenders are being crowded, captured Burauen, a key road juncture nine miles inland from Dulag. Armor-led infantrymen of the 24th Corps broke into the town, after taking nearby San Pablo and its cluster of airfields.

On the extreme northern front, the 10th Corps completed shore-to-shore movements which sealed the southern coast of nearby Samar island and shot American units to the northern tip of Leyte. The landing on Samar, fifth Philippine island to be invaded, was reported Monday and confirmed in today's communique.

The maneuver gave the Americans control of San Juanico Strait, the narrow, crooked waterway dividing Leyte and Samar. The main Japanese supply line for supplies and reinforcements from the north thus has been severed.

Liberation troops have swept 20 miles northwest of Tacloban, the communique reported. Apparently they will curve around the northern tip of Leyte to drive a wedge in Japanese communications with Masbate, main island to the Northwest.

Swear Truman Once Klansman

By DAVID SENTER AND GORDON SCHENDEL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Harry S. Truman, Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate, was a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Missouri, according to affidavits sworn to by his fellow citizens in Missouri.

Truman took the Klan oath, his neighbors swear, which stressed the life-long allegiance demanded of those admitted to the hooded organization.

They swear he attended its secret meetings when the Ku Klux Klan in the region was riding high in its campaign of intolerance and at the peak of its political influence.

Truman—with the fiery cross blazing at one great nocturnal countryside rally—was the principal speaker, they swear.

This—and more of his alleged connections with the Klan back in 1922 and 1923 when Truman was trying for support in his candidacy for country judge in Jackson County—was told in a series of affidavits and testimony from high officials in the Ku Klux Klan.

The documents were signed and sworn to before witnesses by former Klansmen and associates of Truman in the Midwest, including the "Cyclops" or head of the Ku Klux Klan in Independence, Mo., where Truman lived.

The ex-Klansmen officials made their affidavits without benefit of consultation with the others, residing in different states or counties. All but one were Democrats.

The statements of the Klansmen were checked and double-checked in separate visits by reporters for the Hearst newspapers. The statements made to one reporter were corroborated in every detail during following visits by others.

Sen. Truman was a political protégé of "Boss" Tom Pendergast.

The affidavits from the ex-Klansmen follow:

(From Harry Hoffman, Democrat, former marshal of Jackson County, Mo., now residing with his mother on a farm in Oxford, Ohio. Signed, sworn to and witnessed on Oct. 14, 1941.)

"I Harry Hoffman, of Oxford, Ohio, do hereby solemnly swear that in June, 1922, when I was political organizer for the Kansas City, Missouri, jurisdiction of the Ku Klux Klan, I served as one of the five members of the special committee which swore in as a member of the Ku Klux Klan Harry S. Truman, who is the Democratic party's present candidate for Vice-President, of the United States.

"Other members of this committee which officiated when the oath of membership in the Ku Klux Klan was administered to the aforesaid Harry S. Truman were, to the best of my memory, besides myself, A. P. Ford, who since died; Spencer Salisbury and B. C. Loe, all of them living in Jackson County, Missouri.

"The oath was administered to the aforesaid Harry S. Truman by Ku Klux Klan organizer Jones, and the ceremony was held in a room on the mezzanine floor of the Baltimore Hotel, in Kansas City, early in the morning in June, 1922.

(From Lee M. Allen, life-long Democrat and ardent churchman, who has held various public offices including that of deputy sheriff when he was a Klansman, signed, sworn to and witnessed on Oct. 13, 1941, at his farm house in Kingsville, Mo.)

"Having been the cyclops of the Independence, Missouri, unit of the Ku Klux Klan having known most of its members, I can and do hereby solemnly swear that Harry Truman, the Democratic party's Vice-Presidential candidate, made application to the Independence, Mo., unit of the Ku Klux Klan for membership and was accepted as a member, and did participate in activities of the Ku Klux Klan, in 1922, and later.

(From L. H. Goddard, contractor, Republican and prominent elder in the Mormon Church, next-door neighbor to Truman's mother for 18 years and who claims to know the Vice-Presidential candidate "as well as anybody in Missouri," signed, sworn to and witnessed on Oct. 11, 1941, at his home in Grandview, Mo.)

"I, L. H. Goddard, of Grandview, Missouri, while an officer of the Hickman Mills (Missouri) unit of the Ku Klux Klan, late in 1922, attended a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan which was open only to members at Crandall's pasture, near Independence, Missouri, and which was attended by about 20,000 Ku Klux Klan members from the western counties of Missouri, at which one of the principal speakers was Harry Truman, the national Democratic party's Vice-Presidential candidate."

(From O. L. Chrisman, gas station operator, Democrat and regular churchgoer, signed, sworn to and witnessed at his home in Hickman Mills, Mo., Oct. 11, 1941.)

"I, O. L. Chrisman, of Hickman Mills, Missouri, who was head of the Hickman Mills unit of the Ku Klux Klan for a year (I believe in 1922), saw Harry Truman, the present Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate, at a county Ku Klux Klan meeting which was open only to members of the Ku Klux Klan, in Crandall's pasture, near Independence, Mo., in June, 1922."

Labor Strife Laid to Deal

By E. E. EASTERLY

SHAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 26 (AP)—Gov. Bricker declared today the New Deal had scourged the employer and precipitated class hatreds, riots, strikes and strained relations between capital and labor.

This, asserted the Republican nominee for Vice-President, has put the brakes on our industrial progress.

The Ohio Governor, in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff as he entered Oklahoma after a fast one-day tour through Texas, pictured the worker and employer as "two wheels on the same axle."

"If one turns," he added, "the other turns. If friction slows down one of them, the progress of the other is impeded."

"The job of government is to ease the strain and pull between the two and to encourage the forward movement of both. Only in this way can production and wages and net profits be kept at their maximum level."

Bricker said New Dealers considered business success as the sign to attack.

Dewey Bares Deal's $1000 'Special Privilege' Offer

By LEO W. O'BRIEN

ABOARD DEWEY CAMPAIGN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 26 (INS)—Gov. Dewey returned to the East today for the climactic phase of his campaign after accusing President Roosevelt of "sponsoring an idea to sell special privileges and a voice in the formulation of Administration policies for $1000 on the barrel head."

The Republican presidential nominee, by the stinging tone of his Chicago speech last night, indicated he has unmasked his heaviest gun for the closing days of the campaign.

From now until Nov. 7 Gov. Dewey will confine his speaking activities to New York and New England, with talks presently scheduled in Syracuse, Buffalo, Boston and New York city.

His Boston speech will be in Boston Garden next Wednesday.

He also is expected to make "special" speeches in Schenectady, Utica and Rochester in upstate New York, and in New Hampshire and Connecticut.

His next speech, Saturday noon at Syracuse, will be the farm talk he planned for Minneapolis, where he decided instead to answer President Roosevelt's recent foreign policy speech.

Twenty-five thousand persons jammed into the huge Chicago Stadium heard the Republican nominee repeatedly challenge President Roosevelt's veracity and heard him read a letter which, he asserted, revealed a Democratic "special" privilege to 1000 persons "for $1000 laid on the line to finance the fourth-term drive."

Gov. Dewey pulled no punches in his speech. He asserted that: "When the White House speaks, the first question the people ask is not whether the news is good or bad, but is it true?"

The GOP candidate offered as proof of his charge that special privilege was offered for sale a letter dated Oct. 16, 1941, written on the letterhead of the National Democratic Campaign Headquarters, Little Rock, Ark., and signed by H. L. McAlister and Sam J. Watkins, state financing directors. He read the following quotations from the letter:

"This is an invitation to you to join the One Thousand Club—

"The idea of such a club originated at a recent conference at the White House between the President, Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Edwin E. Pauley, treasurer of the committee. At this meeting the President commented:

"I think it would be a good idea to have a list of 1000 persons banded together from all over the United States to act as a liaison to see that facts relating to the public interest are presented factually to the President and members of Congress."

"Members of this organization undoubtedly will be granted special privilege and prestige by party leaders. These members will be called into conference from time to time to discuss matters of national importance and to assist in the formulation of Administration policies."

"To be eligible for membership in the One Thousand Club will require a contribution of $1000 to the National Democratic Campaign Club."

Gov. Dewey asserted that the "crude, unblushing" words he read were "the ultimate expression of New Deal politics."

The Republican nominee, employing stronger words than in any of his previous speeches, repeated alleged misstatements and broken promises by President Roosevelt.

Hannegan 'Clears' F. D. of Charge

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—The declaration by Gov. Dewey that President Roosevelt's Administration "boldly offers for sale 'special privilege,'" has been denied by Democratic National Committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan.

Replying to Dewey's reference to the "One Thousand Club," Hannegan said in a statement last night "I have never discussed with the President the organization of the 'Thousand Club' and any quotation contained in the letter read tonight by Gov. Dewey attributed to the President is wholly without substance and is unauthorized."

"I have been advised by Edwin W. Pauley, treasurer of the national committee that such an organization has been established in an effort to raise funds to defray campaign expenses. Those who subscribe $1000 are making an investment in democracy and the project has my approval."

'Thousand Club' Tries to Explain

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 26 (AP)—In a formal statement today, H. L. McAlister and Sam J. Watkins, finance directors of the Arkansas Democratic campaign, assumed personal responsibility for distribution of letters inviting residents to join the "One Thousand Club" and stating that persons who contributed $1000 would be granted "special privileges and prestige by party leaders." They added that "the interpretation of Dewey's address on the sentence 'members of this organization will be granted special privileges and prestige by party leaders' does not mean to us what has been inferred by him."

"Arkansas citizens have received many benefits direct and indirect from the present Democratic administration. We know what to expect from a Republican administration."

Last-Hour Pleas By Both Parties

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (INS)—Both the Democratic and Republican parties will make last minute election eve broadcasts, it was revealed today, with the strong probability that both Presidential candidates will make eleven hour appeals for votes.

The Democratic National Committee has obtained an option for a full hour between 10 p. m. and 11 p. m. (EST) Nov. 6, and the Republicans have purchased the following hour, both times reserved on a major network.

The Democrats also have taken the first 15 minutes of election day, following the Republican hour, presumably to refute arguments offered by GOP speakers, who will include Gov. Dewey. And the Democratic group has advised the networks that their speakers will include "President Roosevelt and others."

Truman to Make Five Speeches in Bay State

Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, will make five Bay State campaign speeches during the coming weekend.

Saturday he will speak at Worcester at 2 p. m., at Fall River at 5 p. m. and at New Bedford an hour later. Sunday he will address rallies at Lynn and Lawrence.

Medford School Head Fined as Hit-Run Driver

J. Stevens Kadesch $6300-a-year superintendent of Medford schools, was fined $100, given a two-month suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year, today, after pleading nolo to hit-and-run charges in Malden District court.

Kadesch, who has headed the Medford school system since 1930, had been charged with driving so as to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident without identifying himself after causing personal injury.

Victim in the case was Thomas Finnell, 16, of Fort ave., Roxbury, who was hospitalized for several weeks after an automobile crashed into his motorcycle at Mystic ave. and Harvard st., Medford, Aug. 25. Complaints against the educator were obtained by police after witnesses said they recognized Kadesch as the automobile driver. They said he stopped his car, got out, looked at the Roxbury youth, then left.

The case had been continued several times, but today the superintendent's attorney, former Asst. Atty.-Gen. Frank G. Volpe, appeared before Judge Elbridge G. Davis and asked that it be brought forward on the calendar. It had been down for a hearing Nov. 1.

Judge Davis agreed. Volpe told him Kadesch desired to change his original plea of not guilty to one of nolo. It was accepted.

Capt. Thomas J. Kirwan of the Medford police presented the case. The court was informed Kadesch's car had been in a head-on collision with the motorcycle. Finnell was taken to Central Hospital, Somerville with severe injuries to one heel. For nearly a week it was believed an amputation of his foot might be necessary.

Drivers Honor Hero Beckman

A memorial to Harry Beckman, former employee of the Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser circulation department, was dedicated today by his former fellow-workers on the first anniversary of his death in action with the Navy.

Prayers were led by Peter Cohen in the circulation office where Beckman's picture and a service flag were hung. More than 100 drivers took part.

Beckman, a seaman second class, was killed in the Atlantic when his ship was attacked. He entered the Navy in 1942 after 15 years with the circulation department.

Tells Court Siebold Confessed Triangle

A sister-in-law of Sgt. Edward J. Siebold, Boston police ballistics expert, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today that Siebold told her he wanted a divorce to marry a girl he "was madly in love" with.

The testimony came during the second day of Siebold's bitterly contested attempt to divorce Mrs. Kathleen Siebold of Charlestown. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Woodburn, sister of Mrs. Siebold, told Judge John V. Mahoney that Siebold asked her help in obtaining a divorce.

In September, 1943, Sgt. Siebold came to the Atlantic Monthly office where I work and told me he wanted to ask my sister to give him a divorce," Mrs. Woodburn testified.

"He said he would pay any amount and knew my family did not like publicity. He said he was madly in love with a girl and had been living with her for three years.

"If he would get a divorce. He said he was fed up with the police department and wanted to get out of Massachusetts and start anew."

Mrs. Woodburn quoted him as saying: "Elizabeth, I'm no damned good, anyway, and I have the greatest respect for my wife."

She said she had lived with the Siebolds from 1932 to 1939 and considered them "friendly and affectionate" toward each other.

Helen McNulty, Tremont st. waitress, testified she saw Siebold and Miss Helene Ann Coffey, City Hospital technician, together in Sadie Kelly's restaurant in Tremont st. at different times during August and September of 1943.

She said she overheard them planning a vacation trip, and testified she heard Miss Coffey say she had lost her sweetheart and did not care whom she took to get even.

The sergeant and Mrs. Siebold were a "fine couple," according to Ellen A. Pretti, of Roslindale, who testified she visited the pair at their Charlestown home for more than 20 years.

Miss Coffey, named by Mrs. Siebold as a constant visitor to Siebold's hospital room, was scheduled to take the stand later today.

DANIEL HENDERSON
Dares Death to Save Boy

Boy, 16, Saved By Rubber Soles

James Haley, 16, of Walnut st., Dorchester, is alive today because he wore rubber sole shoes.

Haley is under treatment for burns on the legs, and hands at City Hospital, where doctors said his chances of recovery were excellent.

The youngster climbed an electric light pole on Freeport st., Dorchester, just for "a lark," and touched a wire carrying 2000 volts.

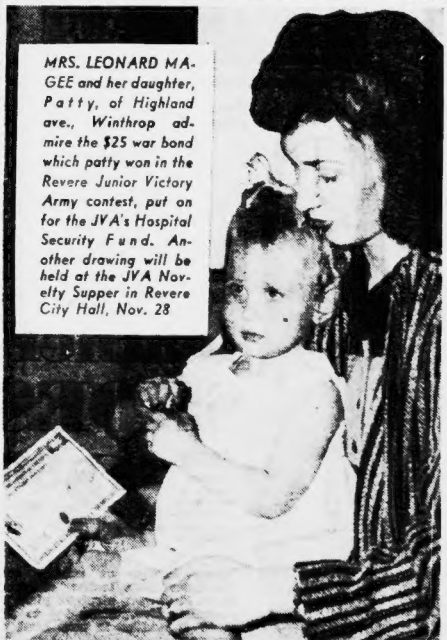

Although warned of the danger, Daniel Henderson, 22, of Beckett st., and John Chambers, 16, both of Geneva st., Dorchester, climbed to the rescue.

Officials of the Edison Co. said Haley probably was spared because he wore rubber soled shoes and did not become completely grounded. His two rescuers escaped because they grasped his clothing instead of his body.

PHYLLIS CANAVAN WITH NURSE STELLA McGRATH
Blind Girl Undergoes First Operation to Restore Sight

Blind Girl of 15 Has 1st Operation Of Series Aimed to Restore Sight

A brave little girl, 15-year-old Phyllis Canavan of Calais, Me., smiled confidently at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary today before going under the first of a series of delicate operations which well-wishers pray will restore her sight.

The youngster, for 13 years, is the protégée of the Lions Club of Calais, who despite a war-depleted membership of only a dozen men, raised a $4500 purse for her surgical care.

Eye specialists operating in their field have expressed the opinion the child will see again, according to Mrs. James Canavan, who accompanied her daughter here.

Phyllis fell against a table when she was two years old and broke a blood vessel in her eye. When the wrong drops were used in her stricken eye they ran into the other eye, and Phyllis became sightless.

Today's operation was to remove adhesions which block the light from entering the inner eye. In two or three months the most delicate part of the program will

Kidnap-Robbery Charges Hold 2

Pleading not guilty to two counts of kidnaping and armed robbery, John E. Mahoney, 28, of Howard st., Roxbury, and Darrell Tanner, 24, of Canton, were ordered held in $10,000 each by Judge Gertrude Halloran in Quincy district court today for the December Norfolk grand jury.

They previously had been ordered held in $15,000 each in Roxbury court on charges of unlawful possession of revolvers and burglar tools and in $10,000 each in Dorchester court on charges of armed robbery. Brookline police hold another warrant charging them with larceny of an auto.

In today's arraignment the pair were charged with kidnaping Michael Sullivan, Quincy auto salesman, and robbing him of $2 last Oct. 2. They also were charged with kidnaping Francis R. McCann, cigarette vending machine service company employee, and robbing him of $1300 and 4000 packages of cigarettes.

Tobin Flouts Cahill's Communism Charge

By FRANK K. REILLY

Mayor Tobin scoffed today at Republican charges that he is the Communist candidate for governor, and continued what appears to be the most intensive gubernatorial campaign ever conducted by a Democrat seeking that office. "The effort of my opponent to inject Communism into this gubernatorial campaign is nothing more than an attempt to cloud the real issues before the voter," he said.

"Communism is repulsive to me. Of the more than two million voters in Massachusetts, less than 5000 are Communists. My Republican opponent is welcome to those votes."

Mayor Tobin will hold three rallies in Brockton tonight, and will speak tonight at Quincy and Randolph. During the day he was to appear in Abington, Whitman, Stoughton, Canton and Rockland.

Lieut. Gov. Cahill, Republican gubernatorial candidate, continued his attacks on Mayor Tobin today with a demand that he be shown one major improvement made in Boston during the past seven years.

"Mr. Tobin has been mayor of Boston for the past seven years," he said. "I wonder why he doesn't talk of his record during that time. I fail to see where my opponent has made one outstanding improvement in the City of Boston during that time."

"I am a veteran of World War I and have gone through many of the things the returning veterans will face. Therefore I feel more qualified to handle the coming veteran situation than Mayor Tobin."

Cahill, an ardent supporter of Gov. Dewey, urged that the people of Massachusetts do their part to elect the New Yorker as president.

He also called for election of Governor's Councilor Clarence A. Barnes as attorney general over the Democratic nominee, former Lieut. Gov. Frances E. Kelly. Kelly today declared the present Republican administration on Beacon Hill has discriminated against Democrats on every possible occasion.

"The man who must depend upon a weekly pay envelope for the support of his family and who feels that he has anything in common with the millionaire aristocracy of Massachusetts Republicanism has been seriously misled," he said. He urged his supporters to vote for Maurice J. Tobin and his associates on the Democratic ticket.

Governor's Councilor Barnes stressed today his long association with the courts as a practicing attorney and his wide acquaintance among the judiciary of the Commonwealth.

Lieut. Gov. Cahill will speak tonight at rallies in Everett and Lynn.

Union Men Fearful Of Hillman's Effect

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The task of the Political Action Committee was twofold, to assure the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and to frighten and coerce members of Congress. Hillman therefore went into the primaries of both the Republican and Democratic parties to finance the opposition to candidates whom he opposed; to support those whom he favored.

Hillman came out of these primaries sufficiently secure in his position to justify, in the minds of the New Deal strategists, a continuance of entering the 1944 campaign in the Political Action Committee.

The general calculation was that at least two large elements in the American population would have to vote for Roosevelt because they could not vote for anyone else; that is, the solid South and organized labor.

We need not discuss the solid South in this article. Organized labor, however, has not come up to Sidney Hillman's expectations.

Not only individual workers but many of the leaders view the Political Action Committee not so much as a movement to reelect Roosevelt for a fourth term as an apparatus to make Sidney Hillman the boss of the entire labor movement, AFL as well as CIO.

I quote from the Journal of the Switchmen's Union of North America, as an example of this position:

"The CIO wishes to establish the standards by which we will govern our political activities.

"We have no disposition to criticize the CIO for any policy it may see fit to adopt. That is solely and exclusively the affair of the CIO.

"We merely claim the same right. We adhere to our policy because, over a period of 25 years, it has been marked by success after success.

"If the CIO thinks it has a better policy, we are quite willing it should experiment to its heart's content. But we hope our railroad workers are too intelligent to be led astray by those whose experience in the political field has been limited and who, up to date, have achieved nothing of consequence."

Labor, official organ of the Central Trades and Labor Council of the AFL, published at Rochester, N. Y., says:

"Labor leaders the country over are protesting Sidney Hillman's CIO Political Activities Committee, declaring his activities in this election are hurting the cause of labor far more than any good that can accrue to labor even if he finds himself on 'the right side of the fence' after election."

The older labor leaders undoubtedly were moved by the letter the widow of Samuel Gompers addressed to James R. Anderson of The Labor Union in which she said:

"Since writing you concerning your paper some days ago, I have been attracted to a reprint of an article now being published in the N. Y. Journal American: 'Sidney Hillman—America's No. 1. disruptionist.'

"Good for you and congratulations. We need more such articles to stir the people up to what is going on right under their noses.

"My husband was utterly opposed to Communism or anything like it, and I only wish he were here now—my only fear is, are we awakening to this menace too late?"

Even within the CIO there is a rising dissatisfaction with the accommodations which Phil Murray, advised by Sidney Hillman, makes to the Communist faction. It is estimated that 1,000,000 CIO members belong to unions completely or partially under control of officers who are Communists or fellow travelers.

The pressures of these unions upon the whole body is terrific, and Phil Murray and Sidney Hillman have neither the will nor the capacity to resist them. But most CIO workers resent these Communist pressures and the abject surrender to them by these chiefs.

The AFL fought this battle long ago and has managed, with few exceptions, to keep the Communists out of positions of leadership.

Labor, the publication of the railroad workers, makes this point:

"If Mr. Hillman, or anyone else, imagines that a proposal to raise $6,000,000 to control a presidential campaign will not cause the most serious repercussions from one end of this country to the other, he simply does not know the American people.

"Inevitably Mr. Hillman's program will strengthen the hands of organized labor's foes and increase the demand for more rigid regulations of labor unions.

"If only the CIO were affected by such hostile popular reaction, we might shrug our shoulders and say it's none of our business. Unfortunately, while the great majority of trade unionists have no interest in or sympathy for Mr. Hillman's grandiose plan, the entire labor movement is likely to feel the sting of popular disapproval."

This position is discussed openly in labor circles, even by some of those who go along with Hillman fearing the consequences of his plunging American labor into this political campaign in partnership with the Communists.

F. D.'s Fala Story Called Half Truth

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26 (INS)—What was declared to be the true version of the rescue of Fala when President Roosevelt's scotie was assertedly left behind at a naval base during the President's Pacific trip last summer was published by the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express.

The account was given to the Herald by a Navy man who participated in the rescue but whose name "will be omitted for obvious reasons," the newspaper said. "Here is the true story," declared the Herald.

"Fala was left behind when the cruiser (one of the Navy's newest), carrying the President, left a Pacific base. After his absence was discovered a radio message was sent to the base. Another Navy vessel carrying Fala then was dispatched after the President's ship. It caught up to the presidential cruiser and both vessels halted while Fala was transferred by means of a rope and basket.

"Thus President Roosevelt's seeming denial of an earlier story that Fala had been left behind and a cruiser from his escort sent back for the terrier was partially correct. He made the statement as part of his address to the Teamsters' Union banquets in Washington, but it was only a 'half-truth' and not a categorical denial."

Canterbury Archbishop Dies

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. William Temple, died today after a heart attack. The primate of all England was 63 and had been enthroned in bomb-pocked old Canterbury Cathedral since April 23, 1942.

His death and that of Princess Beatrice, last surviving child of Queen Victoria, which occurred a few hours earlier, plunged England into mourning. Dr. Temple was the son of an archbishop of Canterbury and they were the only father and son ever to hold the highest office in the Church of England.

When King Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, avowed his love for Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, the American divorcee for whom he subsequently renounced his throne, Dr. Temple, then Archbishop of York, caused a sensation by declaring: "The occasion for his (Edward's) choice ought never to have arisen. It has happened to many a man before now to find himself beginning Boston American, Oct. 26—9 to fall in love with another man's wife. That is the moment of critical decision."

SLAYS JAPS GARBED AS U. S. MARINES

The wily Japs try to fool our men by dressing in uniforms stripped from the bodies of the American dead, but they don't get away with it.

This is the story of 22-year-old Sgt. John P. Correggio of Ferry st., Everett, home on furlough after 33 months of fighting in the Pacific.

Correggio is the soldier referred to recently in Pacific dispatches as killing six Japs, bayonetting one, and knocking out their machine guns when he spotted them while on patrol duty.

"Sure, I remember that one," he grinned. "I had nearly passed their bivouac without spotting it. They were wearing American Marine uniforms they had stolen from our dead, and at first I thought they were our men. Then I noticed the shape of the head of one of them and picked him right off. His pal started to run and I had to get him, too, before he gave alarm. The others were nearby moles and I winged a lot of them before they coulderabout."

SGT. JOHN P. CORREGGIO WITH SISTERS, MICKELINA, LOUISE

But a Everett soldier who wears a Silver Star, Purple Heart and Presidential citation finds it my hard to remember the victor our he have won.

"We at usual remember the battle we win," he said. "But one thing I'll never forget is living in holes for three years."

It's that the loss which cut deep to the red—the ones who wear our kidies fall all around while we're bayonetting Japanese or ran out of ammuniti. Those are the ones that stick like Gudecanal and Bougainville."

Correggio, home with his mother and his sisters, is looking forward to action as when he will vote in the first time.

Only 15 when he enlisted, Correggio was among the first shipped out of Camp Edwards after Pearl Harbor.

When he arrived in the Pacific,

America was lacking in many things to fight the Japs. "But it's a different story now," he added.

27,000 Preparing For History Trials

Anxious to bring honor to their schools, more than 27,000 public and parochial high school students of Boston today began the exhilarating work of delving into the inspiring history of America in preparation for the elimination contests to be held Nov. 30 in the William Randolph Hearst National American History contest.

Twenty questions on America's glorious history were being selected by the panel which includes Supt. Arthur L. Gaud of Boston public schools, Rev. William J. Daly, diocesan supervisor of Boston parochial schools, and Francis A. Smith, history professor at Girls' High School and president of the Council of History Teachers of Boston.

Elimination tests will be held in both parochial and public schools Nov. 30, consisting of 20 history questions and an essay of not more than 250 words on an American history subject to be announced.

War bond prizes totaling $25,000 will be distributed in 13 cities where the competition is sponsored by the Hearst newspapers. The national first prize is $2000 in bonds; second, $1000; the third $500; the fourth to ninth, $100 each; and $50 each to the next 31 contestants.

Added to these national prizes, the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser will award

Halsey's Third Fleet discovered Forces A and B approaching Monday, presumably soon after daybreak.

It was obviously the Jap plan to divert our main battle strength to the interception of these two forces, clearing the way for the direct approach of Force C, not then known to be on the way. These have been Jap tactics in other battles and they failed here as they failed before.

Halsey refused to be diverted from his screening job on the northern approach from which it seemed certain the strongest attack might develop. The task of intercepting and disrupting the approach of Forces A and B became Adm. Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet duty.

The Seventh Fleet boldly split its forces and moved to attack Jap Forces A and B, damaging all six battleships of these two units by aerial attack. They nevertheless continued the approach and Force A passed through San Bernardino Strait into the Philippine Sea Monday night.

Force B also continued its approach under air attack and reached the vicinity of Surigao Strait despite damage. There it was met by a smashing attack of surface forces and routed.

Meanwhile, late in the afternoon of Monday that which Halsey expected developed. His reconnaissance, ranging far northward, reported the approach of the largest force with the carriers. The number of destroyed in this force has not been stated but the presence of the carriers and battleships indicates it was great, probably in excess of 20.

The Third Fleet moved to intercept and the attack on Force C began at daylight of Tuesday. Aircraft, surface ships and submarines all moved in for a smashing blow and the Jap called out probably his last remaining planes based on Luzon.

On this morning also, Halsey lent some of his air strength to Kinkaid for the battle with Force B which had penetrated San Bernardino Strait, attacking our carriers at Leyte and placing our landing forces in dire peril. This battle continued all day with the Jap taking terrific punishment and at night Force B badly crippled, withdrew to the strait in an attempted getaway.

It is doubtful if they escaped especially the four battleships heavily damaged and proceeding at low speed.

That the units in Forces A, B and C represent "practically all of the Jap fleet as Adm. King is reported as saying, is seriously to be doubted. He is very likely in possession of other information concerning the strength of the enemy forces engaged or approaching the scene.

HMS Australia Hit, 19 Officers, Men Dead

CAMBERRA, Australia, Oct. 26 (AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin announced today the HMS Australia suffered superficial damage Oct. 20 during the early stages of the Philippines invasion, and the Capt. E. F. V. Dechameux, the ship's commander, was fatally wounded.

Curtin said 19 officers and men were killed aboard the vessel. He added that Commodore J. A. Collins, commander of the Australian squadron participating in the invasion, had been wounded, but did not indicate if he was aboard the Australia.

Westfield Pilot Describes Epic Attack on Jap Fleet

By MURLIN SPENCER

LEYTE, Philippine Islands, Oct. 25 (delayed) (AP)—Eight fighter planes dropped through the clouds and discovered a Japanese fleet between U. S. carriers and Leyte island at 6 a. m. today, Ens. William Robinson, a Westfield, Mass., pilot, said in describing the opening of one phase of the sea-air battles of the Philippines.

"There below us was what looked like the whole Japanese fleet and there were only eight of us, all fighters," said Robinson. "There must have been four or five battleships, as many cruisers and even more destroyers. They had slipped in during the night and got between our carriers and Leyte."

When discovered the Japanese ships threw up one of the heaviest ack-ack screens that Ens. William McCormick of Los Angeles had seen.

"I came in later in a torpedo plane," said McCormick. "I picked out a battleship of the Kongo class and went in just above the mast. They threw everything at us and near shot us out of the air, but when we left the battleship was smoking."

Kenneth Dahl of Alameda, Cal., saw four 500-pound bombs from his plane straddle a cruiser. The ship was smoking when he left.

End the War VICTORIOUSLY

BIENNIALS WILL STAY

A BRAHAM LINCOLN's famous witicism about fooling the public might well be paraphrased to read:

"You can satisfy some of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you cannot satisfy all of the people all of the time."

That is the likely popular reaction to Referendum Question No. 3 on the November 7th ballot.

Six years' experience has shown that biennial sessions of the Massachusetts Legislature resulted in:

BETTER GOVERNMENT AT LESS COST.

MORE HOME RULE FOR CITIES AND TOWNS THROUGH THE ADOPTION OF BLANKET LAWS FOR MUNICIPALITIES. ELIMINATION OF INFLATED BUDGETS FOR ELECTION PURPOSES.

CURBED BOONDOGGING ON BEACON HILL.

LESS POLITICAL CONFUSION AND TURMOIL.

But a substantial number of Senators and Representatives are not satisfied.

In fact, they are so far from satisfied that, through Referendum Question No. 3, they now have the temerity to ask the people to give up all the benefits of biennials and return to the old system of annual sessions, which, incidentally, forty-four of the forty-eight States have wisely abandoned.

This backward step would give the nostalgic gentlemen an extra year to rattle the rafters on Beacon Hill with political thunder, as well as a chance to collect an extra year's salary.

However, the people—unlike their politicians—are satisfied with the advantages of biennial sessions.

So general is their satisfaction that Referendum Question No. 3 seems destined, even at this early date, to be buried under a blizzard of vigorous "no" votes in all polling places from Boston to the Berkshires.

BAD SITUATION

THE GOVERNOR is sorry. So is the State Election Division. And so, too, are the Boston ballot commissioners.

But, despite all this illustrious sympathy, Coastguardsman Charles W. Rankin, who thought he was fighting for bigger and better democracy for everybody, will not be able to vote in the approaching election.

When young Rankin donned Uncle Sam's uniform, he gave up his dwelling quarters in Boston because he thought he would not have any further use for them—at least for the war's duration.

That was an unfortunate blunder on the prudent patriot's part, for the authorities have since ruled that a member of the armed forces who does not have a bona fide civilian address in a Bay State municipality cannot participate in an election in that municipality.

So, today, Rankin finds himself in the extremely ironical situation of being denied a voice in the very government he is offering his life to preserve.

Obviously, Massachusetts has not done everything it was capable of doing for the Commonwealth's fighting sons.

We say teen-aged lads are old enough to fight and even to die abroad, but we still hypocritically insist that they are not old enough to vote at home.

We tolerate moss-grown technicalities that cannot fail to disenfranchise a large number of the very men on whom the country's life depends.

Those who are responsible for these grave errors will be fortunate if they do not experience the displeasure of service men's parents and friends at the polls a fortnight hence.

The day returns, my bonnie

The blissful day we two did meet;
Though winter wild in tempest toiled

N'er summer sun was half so sweet.
—BURNS.

A GRADE A PLUS husband is one who remembers the date of the day he first met the girl who became his wife and always makes that date a special occasion. Only one husband in 10 can recall the first meeting date. If you doubt this, just ask a few husbands... What is the noisiest city in the world? I always thought it was either New York or Chicago. But listen to what a writer on the China News has to say: "Chungking is a city of noises, of cocks and bugles, motor bus horns, angry waters, brass bands, cheering workmen, town criers, screaming newshounds, barking dogs, peddlars with drums and fuscrokers announcing the formal opening of new shops, Chungking's brass bands play 'Onward Christian Soldiers' at bargain sales and 'The Merry Widow' waits at funerals."

PLEASE NOTE: Once stated that when a person is from a family of few children he usually has a lot of children himself. A Las Vegas, Nev., subscriber gives some confirmation of this. Says his father was an only son, his mother an only daughter and they became the parents of 10 children. So, young fellow, if you want a lot of kiddies marry a girl who is an only daughter.

ASIDES: Manley Stanley of Los Angeles, Casey Macey of Fox Lake, Ill., and Maggie McGahee of Chicago have been made members of the My-Name-is-a-Poem Club. Charlie Fletcher, veteran golfer, says no man has ever scored his age of a par 72 golf course. That is, no man of 72 has ever scored 72 or better. I may be able to win a stogie from Charlie. I think Sandy Herd, British golfer, scored a 68 when he was over 72 years of age.

PASSING BY: J. Fred Coats, song writer. He is the author of the marching song that is most popular with our armed forces in the Far East which is titled "Good Bye Mama, I'm Off for Yohohama." Mr. Coats, who is also a turf enthusiast, is probably the most astute pucker of long shots in the country... Linda Sterling, cinema cutie. A Titian blonde.

Linda Sterling

She is a natural redhead. When she becomes a star there will then be two natural red-haired stars in Hollywood.

SIDELIGHTS: In 1943, of all the marriage licenses issued in the United States, over eight thousand were never used. Why some of these marriage licenses were not used might be interesting. Know anybody who changed his mind after getting the license?... Ever hear of a thoroughbred that was the favorite in every race it ran? Numtaz Mahal, British fully owned by the Aga Khan, had that record. Even when this filly lost three straight races, in which it was the favorite, it was the first choice in the next race it ran.

Aga Khan

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—You say "Buck" Herzog played third base for the N. Y. Giants. Have you looked it up? A—Mister, that's one I don't have to look up. I saw that old boy on third base for the Giants rob Zach Wheat and Jake Daubert of the Dodgers of many a hit. He was a typical McGraw Giant—arrogant, aggressive and highly annoying to the opposition fans. Q—Am a brass band enthusiast. What is the most thrilling band music you ever heard? A—When the band played "Home, Sweet Home" as the boys returning from France marched down the avenue in 1919.

A BRIDE: At the age of 68 Dr. Maude Royden, British preacher, has married for the first time. Her husband is Rev. G. W. Hudson Shaw, who is 80 years old. I have heard of many women marrying at the age of 68 but never before of one for whom it was the first marriage. (Though never married until now, Dr. Royden has been for many years considered an authority on the problems of marriage and has written innumerable articles. She also has acted as an advisor to young married couples.)

MOTHERS, ETC.: It is ridiculous to refer to the superior capabilities of "old-fashioned" mothers in bringing up children. Modern mothers are better all around mothers and generally better informed as to the scientific angles of infant care than those of yesteryear. Young women who have studied modern methods of infant care should follow those methods and not permit themselves to be bulldozed as to the handling of their babies by their mothers, or their husbands' mothers.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1944, by King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—That witty wag, Clifton Fadiman, who slays you with his command of unimportant intelligence on the radio, showed up at a luncheon party the other day to introduce his fellow-traveler, Mrs. Roosevelt, and said something rather roguish about Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, the Connecticut Congresswoman, who also has a fairly rough edge to her tongue.

Westbrook Pegler

He said Mrs. Luce was an Elizabeth Dilling re-designed by Bergdorff Goodman, which is a high-toned store, the implication being, as I get it, that Mrs. Luce is a disloyal American and, what's worse, rich.

Mrs. Luce is quite an eye-ful, so well designed and nicely tinted that when she makes a speech she has a tough time impressing her political arguments on the bucks because they just can't keep their thoughts on politics.

And she can do an imitation of Mrs. R. for private consumption, as good in its way as W. C. Fields' burlesque of Henry Wallace promising a pint of double dry Martinis to every Hottentot every day.

SHE CAN handle Mr. Fadiman, if she thinks him important enough, because she has been in the writing and editing business for years herself, and has a line on the boy prodigy from the days of the Red decade when he was crouching over there on the left with the ideological hatchet-men, and an author who didn't hew to the party line got his hair parted with a cleaver, and any literary or journalistic trollop who did conform was acclaimed as a genius and a find.

But, seeing Mr. Fadiman back in controversy, recalls to me a little fracas that we had a few years ago in which I caught him slumming with the bolos in the New Masses and fed his credo back to him, in print, just at a time when he was beginning to slip quite a lot of blue chips into his secret pocket and was becoming a tax-conscious and conservative capitalist.

I ran onto the wonder-boy's profession of faith in some Communist trash which the Dies Committee had collected and called him up before I wrote the story to ask for a statement of his present position.

"AW, PEG." Mr. Fadiman pleaded, climbing into my lap and trying to ward an arm around me, although, to this day, I don't believe I have ever seen the guy.

"Aw, Peg," he said, "you aren't going to print that, are you? I wrote that when I was young and already it has cost me thousands of dollars in lecture fees."

However, remembering the prodigy's career as a book reviewer for Harold Ross, of the New Yorker, who always says he isn't a Communist but nevertheless buys an awful lot of copy from writers who act an awful lot like Commies, I thought I would print the little piece about Mr. Fadiman anyway.

And so I did and then old Hendrik Willem Van Loon, another of Mrs. Roosevelt's house-pets, made the mistake of cutting himself in for a slice of the argument.

HE WROTE a letter to the Vox Pop saying he would undertake to answer me from the standpoint of an expert in abnormal psychology. Up to then I had always let Van Loon alone, figuring that he was just a fellow posing as an intellectual and doing the best he could, although some historians used to go into lathers over his ignorance and inaccuracies and dispute him with learned refutations which only advertised him.

But when he pulled that thing about abnormal psychology I wrote back yielding the field without a struggle because me, I'm just normal. Van Loon subsided with a low moan.

I GUESS I don't know my own strength, but the guy came around pleading for it.

Well, anyway, a few weeks after the Fadiman thing, Fadiman said he was sorry he had only $100,000 life insurance because if he had $200,000 worth, enough to take care of his loved ones, he would surely slay that Pegler and go to the chair with pleasure.

Unless he has raised his financial sights, this might be a good opportunity for Sidney Hillman's Political Action Committee to underwrite that other $100,000 and do mankind a favor, although, of course, Mr. Fadiman didn't say "positively" and he may have changed his mind.

But, if the worst comes, would some kind friend give me a place to hide?

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—I can hardly wait! Irving Berlin has made a deal with Mark Sandrich at Paramount to whip up the next big Bing Crosby musical. Remembering the previous get-together of Berlin and Crosby in "Holiday Inn" and the unforgettable "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas,"—this is the news to set the box office jumping for joy—and me, too.

Bing Crosby

The new picture is tentatively titled "Blue Skies" and, in addition to the new Berlin numbers, there will be many of the old hits, including the title song.

First, however, Berlin wants to spend a couple of months in the South Pacific entertaining the heroes and he plans to leave in December. So far, Bing isn't afflicted with the wanderlust of his sidekick, Bob Hope. Crosby wants to make pictures, believing they reach a bigger service audience than he could cover even if he were triplets.

MYRNA LOY isn't going to be in any hurry to make another picture. She's up to her neck in hospital work in New York and likes it. She's also learned to like New York better than Hollywood for a permanent address—could be because Capt. Gene Markey is so close by in Washington.

SIDELINES: When Xavier Cugat told his wife that he would play a straight acting role in "Weekend at the Waldorf," she said, "Why get excited? You're been acting, without pay, for the last 14 years." The late Irving Cobb's granddaughter, Buff Cobb, is heading out from New York to make a test for David Selznick . . . James Cain's hot fable romance, "Serenade," has been passed by the Hays Office after many changes. I betcha in the M-G-M script . . . How come Katharine Hepburn is sporting pistols in "Without Love"? Connie Bennett never wore anything but the most formal hair-dos in the same role on the stage . . . Barbara McLane, who was the cutter on "Wilson," just received a gold bracelet and medalion from Alexander Knox. The medalion is inscribed: "To Bobbe—Who Cut a President—and Got Away with It!" . . . I think this pinch-hitting for L. O. P. has gone far enough without a special word of appreciation to Neil Rau, who is doing such a swell job helping me get out this column every day. Also a bouquet to Sara Hamilton for the same reason.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Carole Landis and Woolie Donahue dancing the nights away in New York; Alf Van derbilt's new heart interest is a beauty named Florence Pritchard; Date Harris, 18-year-old beau of Shirley Temple, is being inducted into the Airborne Infantry as a paratrooper this morning; "A 7-pound-4-ounce girl for the Richard Denings (Evelyn Ankers); the Matty Mahneck left looks permanent; Ken Murray and Harold Lloyd tossed a party congratulating themselves on their new air shows for the same sponsor; the real reason that top band leader wants to break with the company that has been making his records for years is that they refused him a $50,000 advance—and he's broke; are Dolores Moran and Mai Guey Diamond secretly wedded? He's living at the home of her parents while he's on leave here.

MARY MARTIN tossed a birthday party back stage of "One Touch of Venus" for her daughter who was three years old Tuesday; with Robert Walker these nights is Shirley Patterson—and vice versa; Jackie Coogan went straight to Cro's to meet Ramsay Ames for a pre-arranged date after he flew in last night; the "Winged Victory" is in route to the grandstand night for San Francisco on the start of a tour that will wind up in Washington for a special performance for F. D. R.; Betty Jane Graham, one of the Cover Girls brought out by Columbia, has been secretly married for three months to Bob Desiel, civil engineer with the Navy.

Washington Scene

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction Prohibited

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Ever since coming to Washington I have heard wails that this town does not have adequate entertainment.

There is only one legitimate theater and the movies are always packed, even when the films I get to see are playing. And many feel they should not be asked to rely solely on the OPA handouts for amusement.

Every time I go to New York, or elsewhere, people act sympathetic. Practically dripping pity, they ask how I can stand the drab life of the Capital.

They can't imagine the fun we're having. They don't get to the White House press conferences!

EVERY WEEK now these get-togethers become more rollicking. They average a good bellylaugh a minute.

Everybody enters into the spirit of the thing, even David K. Niles, the White House mystery man, who is usually too busy being mysterious to be hilarious. For the benefit of would-be detractors, I have personally heard Mr. Niles chuckle audibly at a presidential witticism.

This must mean he is enjoying himself. No one around the White House would think of laughing at a gag just because the big boss said it.

We almost double up, it's so exasperating. Take for instance the hilarity over the President's nonsensical!

BUT FIRST of all, it might be educational, and also provide background, to describe how a White House press conference operates.

To get in you must have a pass—which is granted only after you have been mugged and fingerprinted by the Secret Service. I presume they investigate you, too, but if they do they are gentlemanly about it.

You exhibit this pass at the gate and again as you enter the Executive Mansion. You are now in a big lobby, dominated by an enormous flat-topped table, gift of Aguinaldo, the old Filipino insurrectionist. So far as I know, this table has never been used for anything except a hat-rack for reporters.

Conferences are usually 10 to 20 minutes behind schedule—seldom on time. You show your pass twice more as you move into the President's sanctum—the Secret Service men scrutinize it each time no matter how familiar they are with your kisser.

By George Dixon

When everybody is assembled before the President's desk, a guard shouts "All in!" The doors are locked and no one can leave until it's over. This is necessary, because, whenever the President says anything hot, every good reporter has a terrific itch to get to a phone.

FDR tells what news he wishes to give out. Then the session is thrown open to questions.

WELL, AT OUR most recent frolic, the President said he had only one piece of news to wit: That, no matter what rumors were current, positively did not have the sniffles.

By way of proof he sniffed loudly. We all laughed like hyenas.

Then somebody asked about his statement that he would not campaign in the usual political sense. The President said this represented only half a sentence.

When the hilarity subsided, FDR said his full sentence had been that he did not intend to campaign in the usual political sense, except to answer misrepresentations and gross misstatements of fact.

REPORTS have been current lately that the President is having a Hollywood make-up man fix him up for public appearances.

I scrutinized him closely but could detect no signs of it. This does not mean anything, however. Only the other night a dame assured me she did not use lipstick and I believed her until I got home and had the contrary pointed out.

I understand, though, he is having Hollywood experts, directed by Walter Wanger, arrange the lighting effects for his pictures. I can sympathize with this because I have had pictures taken without artistic lighting—and it positively is not true that I am a dead ring for Boris Karloff.

IN ANSWER to countless queries about the President's health, I must admit I haven't the faintest idea. But his press conferences are uproarious!

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—One of Broadway's favorite ntypes this season, as for some seasons past, is the beautiful cloak model, but she is no longer called Nellie

(she is more likely to answer to Anita, Susan, or Dusty), and she is certainly not limited to cloaks. She displays frocks, hats, nail polish, jewelry and the latest hair-dos, and in fact her pulchritude is used to sell products like vacuum cleaners and silverware, which have nothing to do with beauty.

Betty Furness

In the glamour league, she rates second only to the actress. She is a notch above the showgirl, who once reigned as item queen of the Broadway columns—why, I don't know; but it is a fact that the beautiful girl who sails into the Strick Club on a wind of admiring whispers these nights is none other than a cover doll than a member of a musical comedy ensemble. The trend, has shifted.

IT BEGAN shifting only during the past decade, so there's a Cinderella lunge to the emergence of the model from a role of anonymity to her present glorified state.

Ten years ago, a photographer's model rarely shined into the publicity spotlight. One of the first to receive any white space, as I recall, was Elizabeth Furness, who excited city desks because at a time when she should have been dreaming about her debut as a society belle, she was posing for profit. (She later became Betty Furness, the actress.)

Magazines didn't use many photographs of pretty girls on their covers in those days. But now—well, you know! In the space of one month recently, Selma Mahri's pretty pan was decorating eight national magazines—at a $25-an-hour posing fee.

Nor, 10 years ago, were models being kissed on a hundred silver screens by a top-flight movie hero. But now, witness Lauren Bacall in the cinema arms of Humphrey Bogart from Coast to Coast—and with such billing and buildup!

MONEY? The average 1944 model earns about ten dollars per working hour, and a few like Sary Brewster, Francine Counihan and Selma Mahri get $25 for their time.

All models have agents to whom they pay commissions. Just as actors do. The most famous of the agents are John Powers and Harry Conover, both of whom were once male models.

Recently a new organization—the Society of Models—has sprung up, sponsored not by an agent, but by 25 of the nation's leading commercial photographers.

Very few modeling beauties become stage notables, although, most of them have ambitions in the direction of Shubert Alley.

Jinx Falkenburg, Lauren Bacall, Kay Aldrich, Betty Furness, Anita Colby and Georgia Carroll are the only ones I can think of who have profited on the screen to any extent, although I am told that Howard Hughes, alone, tested more than 200 of these cover beauties during the past decade.

STATISTICS? Unlike showgirls, very few models have joint apartments. About 85 per cent of them are married, and about 90 per cent of these have husbands away in the service.

Thirty-five per cent of the current model crop are college graduates, indicating that the belles of the three-color-process pages not only can walk with books on their heads, but they can read 'em.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Thursday, Oct. 26, 1944

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—Mars, God of energy and war, is prominent in your chart. Sometimes enigmatic and often forceful. Take a calmer outlook of things. You can rise high in this world, especially in chemistry, surgery, writing, as business official. Are never a milk-and-water person. Seek religion more, and good friends. Birthdate of: Georges Jacques Danton, French revolutionist; Eileen Mary Lee Rosie, writer, composer.

BROWN IS PERFECT for autumn days . . . and this brown gabardine model with smooth-fitting jacket, accented with wide belt detail, is smart stuff. Note the interesting bag of brown and beige plaid wool which is stunning complement to the large off-the-face chapeau . . . with the brim rolled down across the front. Pie-Pan Meat Loaf

By MARTHA LEE

WITH GROUND MEAT SO PLENTIFUL on the market, many tasty dishes can be planned to give pleasure to family appetites. Take, for instance, the pie-pan meat loaf which we are giving the recipe for today. The ground meat itself is seasoned only with salt and pepper and flattened out in the pie-pan to make the "crust" for an herb-seasoned filling whose flavor, along with the bacon slices that go on top, gives the whole simple dish an appealing zest. Celery and celery seed, onion, parsley and marjoram blend with bread crumbs in this dish.

PIE-PAN MEAT LOAF

1½ lbs. ground beef
1½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 cup celery dressing
2 strips bacon

Season the meat and flatten out to about ½-inch thickness on pie plate, leaving enough extending over the edge for the crust effect. Fill the center with the celery dressing and fold the edges of meat up over the dressing. Place strips of uncooked bacon on top. Bake in a moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for 45 minutes, or until meat is cooked and bacon crisp.

CELERY DRESSING

1 cup finely chopped celery
1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tsp. parsley
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup cream, dry old brandy
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. celery seed
Four grains pepper
Water or soup stock

Chop celery, onion and parsley in butter for a few minutes. Add other ingredients and enough water or soup stock to make a slightly moist dressing.

For ground beef dishes, which this season are so popular, any of the best tender cuts of beef may be used, especially the chuck neck, brisket, shank or lower round. Usually it is better to have the meat ground only once in a course grinder.

Most people prefer one teaspoon of salt to one pound of ground meat and add other seasonings to taste. If onions, minced or sliced, are used with the meat mixture, one small onion per pound of meat is usually the proportion.

Relief for Tired Feet

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WE STAY-AT-HOME women may not be in the Army . . . but we certainly do a lot of boots, boots, marching up and down again . . . and while it is well known that pretty legs demand foot care and cosmetics . . . most poor footies get lost in the shuffle of neglect.

We appreciate that the new clothes need a figure . . . and what a figure. We study our hair for the all-important hit. We give care, cream and a straight spine to achieve a lovely, swan-like neck. Some of us even go through the paces of daily calisthenics to get that wasteful down to a sleek, slimness and trimness. But, besides faith and hope . . . do we give a little clarity to our feet? Do we give well-earned care and attention to the 6, 7 or 8 lbs. . . that give the Venus form divine its gorgeous start?

Come, come . . . it doesn't matter how many 2½ pounds you dole out for your "coming kicks." If it DO get tired and aches when you've been on them for any appreciable length of time . . . and our so-called personality faces lose a little of their plus rating. Today, with gas, fatiguing, imposing, increased exertion on our pedal extremities, the Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady are giving equal wear and tear to shoe leather.

SOOTHING, COOLING

Of course, if you're the athletic type . . . our words are wasted effort, for hiking is your desert. But, most of us gals are still the weaker of the species and we can't . . . simply can't . . . keep on walking without paying the penalty of all-over misery. If your feet and legs get tired from over-use and over-exertion . . . if they wear you out so you feel you could drop in your tracks . . . we have a soothing, cooling foot lotion that will rehabilitate both your feet and your feelings. As exhibit A for most women, we like this champagne cocktail for tired, aching feet . . . which tenderly coaxes them back to refreshing normalcy much as a bucket of ice remedies a bottle of rarer-than-rare old vintage champagne for the epicure's palate.

DRIES INSTANTLY

It is a medicated soothing foot lotion . . . containing camphor and menthol . . . and dries instantly after you've massaged its grand-feeling goodness into your feet and up to your ankles. It is so good you could massage your body with it and draw out any feeling of tired tension. It is a foot lotion that has gone all over the world to appreciative service men and women.

For the name of this dress-star soothing foot lotion, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 9000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Beauty

AFTER A DAY'S grueling grind before the cameras, screen stars don't stay at home and nurse tired footies. They treat over-used feet with the massaging benefits of a soothing, cooling foot lotion that gives them instant relief . . . and sets them up for an evening of gaiety and the next day's tiring demands. Filmstress Joan Winfield is demonstrating the routine which keeps her pedal extremities free from fatigue and keeps them good looking, too.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday — Mrs. Jonathan Wainwright, wife of Lt. Gen. Wainwright, was one of my luncheon guests yesterday, and I could not help feeling the greatest admiration for her courage, I want to share with you my feeling, because I think it is an inspiration to all women in this war.

In the two and a half years since her husband was taken prisoner by the Japanese in the Philippines, she has had only seven of those 25-word printed letters from him. He, in turn, has never had a word from home.

Yet she is concerned about the relatives of the other men in his command, she speaks on the radio, and she does all she can, not only to keep her own

MRS. GEORGE ASHTON OLDHAM, wife of the bishop of Albany, lunched with me also. The bishop is in London at present, and she hopes he will have an opportunity to visit our troops in other theatres.

Mrs. Oldham described the hurried preparations for his trip, and how the various "shots," which had to be concentrated in a short time, gave him two sore arms and a high temperature, in spite of which he had to shop and pack and leave.

In the afternoon I spent some time going through the wards at the Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Md. I was chiefly in the orthopedic and surgical wards, and will visit the others the next time I have a free afternoon here.

Not all the cases were overseas casualties. There were in addition a number of men suffering from injuries sustained in automobiles, airplanes and while playing football. Many of the men are getting well and will have no serious after-effects, and that is the important thing.

At tea time a very interesting Hungarian woman, Mrs. Cornelia St. George, came to see me at the request of Mrs. Thomas E. McAllister, at one time vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

I found Mrs. St. George chiefly interested in how we could promote better understanding in the future among young people of all nations.

'Sitting Pretty' a Duty

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SITTING pretty is not going to be hard this winter. Every one of us can get ourselves into this highly desirable position when we get off our feet and into a chair.

Because sitting pretty is very largely a matter of what kind of clothes you happen to be wearing, it is the styles this fall that encourage it. And last fall they were pretty tough on the looks of sitters. So, since there happens to be quite a lot of last fall's straight, short and narrow clothes around, you'd do better by yourselves to beware of them if you want to sit pretty.

You can sit well in a short-skirted dress provided it has some drapery to it, or maybe a jabot or ruffles, or panels, but if it is just straight tube, nobody on earth is going to look nice in it when sitting down. And, if you sit quite a lot, you'll look much more charming with skirts just a shade longer than you would need standing up. This is particularly true of the untrimmied skirt.

The main purpose of dress is to make you look prettier, more attractive, so every model should be considered from both sitting and standing positions.

Busy War Workers

A SO-CALLED social butterfly is harder to find nowadays than a pound of butter or your favorite cigarettes. In a survey of attractive Hub post debs we find most of them with paid or volunteer war jobs or continuing their education in a chosen field.

Dorothy "Dee-dee" Comstock is the latest of Boston socialites to go overseas where she has been appointed to a very special secret job. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Burr Comstock of Cambridge, she came out in '38, attended Radcliffe and since the war has had a responsible job in Washington.

They call themselves "shopgirls unlimited" and have written many postcards to their Boston friends announcing they will tackle all shopping problems from nuns to suits.

Barbara Anne Newbert Kelly (Mrs. John), a bride a few months, has taken a job in a Waban gift shop and moved in with her mother while her Navy lieutenant husband is on the high seas. The other evening mother and daughter made an attractive pair dining with friends in the Copley Plaza Oval Room. Barbara's slim black gown had a drop shoulder yoke of electric blue sequins and Mrs. Newbert's black was trimmed with lace ruffles sparkling with jet beads.

Bonnie Louise Penhallow applied her valuable Nurses' Aide training to her own use this week when she burned her hands in the explosion of an oven at home. The treatment was so successful she was able to return to her hospital work the following day.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER STARK of Hingham are giving a dinner party this evening before the round-up of war fund workers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Morton Smith. This is one of a series of community pep-up meetings before the opening of the United War Fund campaign next Monday.

The Starks' dinner guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Bacheller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Wise and the evening speakers, Brooks Potter and Merritt Hewitt.

Before beginning their actual solicitations Beacon Hill and Back Bay workers will meet with their chairman, Mrs. Otis T. Russell and Mrs. Merrill Griswold at a joint workers' meeting tomorrow afternoon at N. E. Mutual Hall with Henry A. Laughlin, general chairman, the speaker.

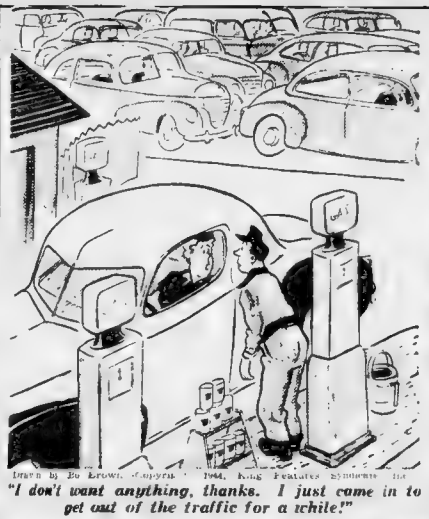

Debutantes Alice H. Mumford, Barbara Mitchell, Rachel Rock, Margaret Amory, Sabra Harwood and Edith Cunningham will usher at the 12th season of Mrs. William Dana Orcutt's Mornings of Diversion which will begin next Wednesday in N. E. Mutual Hall with a performance by the lovely American Indian princess Te Ata. Mid-morning coffee will be served before the program.

Rodeo to Open Next Thursday

With Roy Rogers, movie cowboy star, and his famed horse Trigger as featured performers, the 13th annual champion-horse rodeo opens Thursday, Nov. 2, at the Boston Garden.

One of the highlight events of the show is a contest for big prize money in which 200 of the nation's outstanding cowboys will compete.

The rodeo runs through Nov. 12.

Revere Aids JVA Ragweed Drive

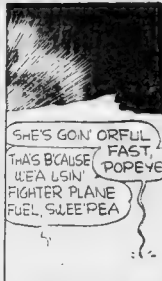

Junior Victory Army members in Revere did such an outstanding job in clearing their city of ragweed this year that the city council has voted an appropriation of money for them to take care of their expenses in this work next year.

Mrs. Lala O. Annis, Harris St. Revere, sponsor of the troop, received a letter this week from Mayor Raymond E. Carey and signed by City Clerk Rita M. Bishop, saying in part that the city council had "ordered that His Honor the Mayor appropriate a sufficient sum of money to reimburse the members of the JVA, troop 251, in the annual budget for the year 1945, which members should clear the city of ragweed."

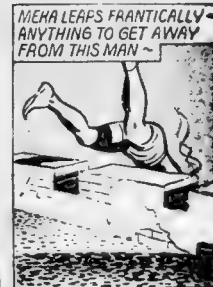

With such backing as this, the JVA boys and girls are determined to do an even better job next year. This is an example that other cities having JVA corps could follow.

Mrs. Annis is now busy laying the groundwork for the formation of JVA Troop No. 251 in Chelsea. A delegation from Chelsea will attend the Novelty Supper no knives or forks at Revere City Hall, Tuesday, Nov. 28, when the drawing of the $25 War Bond will be made. This will be Chelsea's Lucky Bond, because proceeds of the sale of chances on this bond will go toward setting up their JVA organization. The proceeds will be high if similar events in Revere are any indication. Revere cleared $198 on two chances which they ran recently.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to

Rock Loses $12,000 On 'Lady in Red' Bets

By JACK CONWAY

"THE LADY IN RED," who wagers $5000 to $10,000 on a horse to show with the same nonchalance that the average bettor does when he places $2 on his favorite selection, has cost Rockingham Park $12,000 during her sensational winning streak, according to Lou Smith.

"I have always believed in having show betting even when there are only five-horse fields," said Lou. "A horse still must run around the track to finish in the money, and often things go wrong even with stand-out thoroughbreds. Didn't Twilight Tear run out of the money at Laurel on Saturday?"

Lou Smith

"The 'Lady in Red' has been picking the solid horse in short fields. If one studies the entries carefully, there is usually a spot for a big show bet in some race each day.

"The winning streak of the 'Lady in Red' has cost Rockingham Park $12,000. This is because there has been a minus pool every time the 'Lady in Red' has made one of her big show bets. Under the New Hampshire racing law, the track must pay at least 10 cents on the dollar for show. As the State does not share in losses on pools and always gets its regular percentage regardless of what happens, the track loses when there is record show betting.

"Race tracks cannot always expect to win and they must take their losses with their profits. The long winning streak of the 'Lady in Red' at Rockingham Park proves that the form horses are doing well at our track. It is a boost for racing."

Beating the Races

THE NUMBER of people who have beaten the races can be counted on the fingers of one hand. There was Pittsburgh Phil who died a millionaire. He was a spot bettor. He would wait for a particular race, and then wager thousands of dollars on the horse he liked to win.

Chicago O'Brien accumulated a fortune playing horses to show and in making an occasional win bet.

Another big bettor, who was also known as Chicago O'Brien on account of having the same name as the original prominent race-tracker, won hundreds of thousands of dollars at the New York tracks in the Golden Twenties.

"What did you do with your vast winnings?" I asked O'Brien one night.

"I decided to play the stock market," he said rather sheepishly. "I concluded J. P. Morgan was the smartest person in the stock market. I invested my money in Morgan utility holding companies. When the crash came, I lost most of my money. I guess every man should stick to his own business."

Fortunately most persons who go to the races do not hope to make a living by beating the thoroughbreds. They enjoy a day in the open watching competitive sport. As long as they consider their betting losses like a check in a night club, they will not get hurt too much.

Random Shots at Target

CALIFORNIA and Florida will have big racing seasons. . . . Most of the horsemen at Rockingham Park plan to ship to either California or Florida when the Hampshire track closes on Nov. 18. . . . Gulfstream will open the Florida season on Dec. 1. . . . Gulfstream has excellent location on Route 1 about 18 miles north of Miami. . . . With Miami already doing a boom business, Gulfstream expects to have a good opening despite the fact it has the first dates. . . . January and February dates are considered the best ones in Florida.

Robert Defeats

Clayburne in Three

Yvon Robert defeated Jack Clayburne, two falls to one, in the main feature of the Paul Bowser card last night at the Boston Arena before a crowd of 6000.

In the preliminary bouts Dr. Fred Meyers defeated Dick Tracy; Kay Bell of California downed Lea Lyon and Manjo Sing of India defeated Manuel Cortez.

500 Golf Balls for Yank Prisoners

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—War prisoners aid of the Y. M. C. A. announced today it had sent 500 golf balls to Geneva, for transfer to American prisoners of war in German camps. Clubs for 100 players also were in the shipment. The announcement said:

"Last anyone think American war prisoners in Germany lead a country club life, war prisoners aid points out that the golf courses in prison camps are miniatures, that boundary lines are marked by barbed wire, and that there is a permanent 'gallery' of guards armed with machine guns."

Rate Canadiens Best Club in League

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (AP)—The word already has gone around the National Hockey League that the Montreal Canadiens again will be the best club in the circuit, perhaps even better than last season.

But Coach Dick Irvin wants to show that they're best, not only "on paper" but on the ice as well. "Dick has been drilling his players hard, paying careful attention to details and has every member of his squad in fine shape to start the season Saturday against Boston.

Although the Canadiens lost a few players through the ruling that denies them the use of men deferred from military service for other than physical reasons, they have a wealth of new material to replace them.

BILL DURNAN BACK

Bill Durnan, last season's star goalie and winner of the Vezina trophy, will be back in the nets with the able Paul Bibeault in reserve. Bibeault, discharged last year from the Canadian army, has been sought by several clubs, but the Canadiens plan to keep him.

On defense, Leo Lamoureux, Glen Harmon and Emile Bouchard remain from last year's Stanley Cup championship squad, along with the veteran Wilf Fielder and Frankie Eddie, who has been on the Canadiens' list for several years and gets his first chance to play big league hockey after his discharge from the R. C. A. F.

Center Elmer Lach and Wingmen Toe Blake and Maurice Richard again will function as a unit. They provided most of the club's scoring punch last season and have performed just as well

N. Y. Likes Syracuse; Boston Prefers Eagles

Members of the New York betting gentry have installed the University of Syracuse as 13-5 favorites to defeat the Boston College Eagles in their scheduled game on next Saturday at Fenway Park.

The odds of course are only prevalent in the state of New York but show that BC's two lopsided victories over CNY and NYU have not indicated to the Gothamites that they are capable of defeating the Orangemen who have two losses, a tie, and one victory to their credit thus far this season. In local circles BC still holds a slight favorite advantage.

Ossie Solom's boys will prove to be the toughest yet that the Eagles have yet played and the outcome of the tilt will be a huge factor in deciding the attendance at the Holy Cross-Boston College game on Sunday, Nov. 26 at Fenway Park. If the Heightsmen win by an impressive score a capacity attendance may be expected for the renewal of the annual Jesuit football classic but a loss will cause some of the pigskin fans to lose interest.

SERVICE TEAM LOOKS TIGHT

The BC boys have two other games on the fire but as yet nothing definite has been announced. Both Harvard, who defeated the Eagles at the Stadium 13-0 already this season, and the Melville, R. I., PT eleven, which boasts such "name players" as Torby McDonald and Steve Levantis, are possible additions to the BC schedule. The PT base already has a scheduled tilt with Holy Cross.

Word from New York has it that Solom will use a singling attack with a few T formation plays, but the Syracuse mentor is a cagey gent and may come up with a new innovation for the coming game. Solom is the inventor of the highly-discussed Y formation which was used in Syracuse in 1941. BC hasn't been forced to resort to any of their fancy plays this season, but next Saturday may see Coach Moody Sarno pull a few tricks himself. Sarno has had no scouts to look over the Syracuse team in action this season while the Orange has scouted BC several times this fall and thus may make a difference in the game.

PAUL MURPHY AT END

Coach Sarno has his charges going through daily workouts at Alumni Field in preparation for the coming game. Paul Murphy will take the place of the injured John Callahan, who is out with a dislocated shoulder, at end. Murphy took over the position after Callahan's injury against NYU and did a creditable job. The rest of the lineup will probably remain the same as that which started against the Violets.

Cancel Louis' Plant Tour

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26 (INS).—Without explanation, the tour of Pittsburgh district war plants which had been scheduled for world's heavyweight champion Sgt. Joe Louis, today had been cancelled. Louis, it was announced, has been ordered to report to New York.

Louis Will Defend Title Only After War

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (INS).—Sgt. Joe Louis intimated today that he won't defend his heavyweight championship against Billy Conn or anyone else—until the war is over.

Louis, who returned from overseas Oct. 19, toured four Philadelphia and Chester war plants on a War Manpower Commission anti-absenteeism drive.

When queried on reports that Mike Jacobs would promote a Louis-Conn bout next summer if both fighters are out of the service, Louis commented:

"I don't think I can discuss such a bout now. Certainly, I'm thinking about the future, but let's get this war over first."

Coach Morrison Disappointed Leader

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (AP).—Coach Ray Morrison discovered Temple University's students include Joe Marbocka, Jr., Lafayette star of 1912-1913; Elting Johnson, Frank Burns, John Murray, ex-Bucknell hall carriers, and John Hewson, former Muhlenberg and Bucknell star.

He also discovered they are enrolled in medical and dental schools, and none of them is eligible to play football.

Navy Order Ruins Purdue Grid Hopes

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 26 (INS).—Seven V-12 members of Purdue's football squad, including four veterans, will be lost to the team after Saturday's game at Michigan due to Navy transfer orders.

The vets are Frank Bauman, outstanding end and acting captain, Chalmers Elliott, left half-back, Stanley Dubicki, place-kicking specialist, and Walter Purcumb, center.

Patty Berg Suggests Sports for Girls

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (AP).—"The best health insurance for American girls is participation in some competitive sport," advised Lt. Patty Berg, former golf champion, in a talk before some junior high school students.

28,000 Grid Fans To Watch Rice-Texas

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 26 (AP).—The largest crowd in the history of Rice Stadium, a capacity 28,000, will see Rice plays Texas Saturday for the Southwest Football Conference lead.

Iowa Seeking Big Six Title

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26 (AP).—Iowa State seems bent on doing something this year it never has done before—win itself a Big Six football title.

Every other club in the league has won the championship at least once, with Nebraska being positively piggish about the thing with nine prize-winning ball clubs. But although Iowa State has come close, it never has managed to squeak through.

This may be the year. True, it has been tied by Missouri, but four other Big Six ball clubs have had conference ties on their records—and still come through. (If you stub your toe once in the Big Six, you're through. In 1930, for instance, Iowa State, in 1930, ever lost a conference game and still won the title.)

Schott, Lowman Top Mack Show

Freddy Schott, Paterson, N. J., heavyweight who has scored stirring victories as an amateur and professional, will make his Boston ring bow tonight when he clashes with Earl Lowman of Detroit in a ten-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building. Schott is considered the best of the younger crop of heavyweights, and he is expected to be installed a favorite over the veteran Lowman.

In Lowman's last appearance here, he knocked out Jimmy Mul-

Johnny Ryan of Detroit, now stationed at the Army camp at Aberdeen, Maryland, and Gene Bouden of Providence will mingle in the semi-final of eight rounds. Ryan and Bouden furnished a torrid scrap at the last Callahan A. C. show. There is considerable interest in their return meeting.

There will be two other eight-round bouts. The "Young Brown Bomber" of Cape Cod, who made a hit in his showing here last week, will have Will Bill McDowell of New York as an opponent, while Rudy Evans of Newark will tangle with Tony Gills of New Haven.

Sunday when the Boston Yanks and Brooklyn Tigers tangle, with each seeking its first victory of the season.

Actually, seven points have been the widest margin any opponent has had over the Tigers this year. So, the Cawthon outfit figures that somebody is going to pay for their hard luck and they intend the Yanks their victims.

But the Boston club has shown, for newcomers, to give any club a real tussle on any given afternoon. While the Yanks came out of the Eagles game somewhat battered, the injured members have rounded back into condition and everybody will be ready for the Tigers.

Scotty Gudmundson, still limping because of a muscle pull, resumed work Wednesday and will see action Sunday. The chances are, though, that he will not start. Because of this, Herb is still undecided on his starting backfield.

TWO JOBS FOR BACKS

Bob Davis probably will be moved back from wingback to quarterback and John Martin, who looked so good against the Eagles, will start at wingback. George Catego is a definite starter but it is not as yet known whether he will be at tailback or fullback. If he is at tailback, Milt Crain will start at fullback. If Catego goes at fullback, Teddy Williams will be at tailback.

All the backs have been crowded for at least two jobs, so that they will be able to perform double duty if needed, for Coach Herb Kopf is leaving no stone unturned in his efforts to have his charges turn in their first victory of the season.

For a club which has dropped four in a row, the spirit of the Yanks is little short of remarkable. Outside of their bad day against the Eagles last week, the Boston squad has been playing surprisingly good football for newcomers.

It has given Coach Herb Kopf a real selling point and he has been stressing nothing but hustle and aggressiveness all week.

The Yanks' mentor has shown his charges that, statistically, his squad compares favorably with the Tigers and that this is as good a time to start winning as any. To make the situation all the better, nobody expects much from the Yanks, so they have little to lose by going all out Sunday.

Jim Doyle and McDaniel Here

Jimmy McDaniels and Jimmy Doyle, a pair of powerful Irish prospects from California, arrived in Boston and both will go through light workouts today in preparation for their local debuts at the Boston Garden tomorrow night in the twin 10-rounders featuring the Goodwin A. C. fistic festivals.

McDaniels will be meeting the hard hitting North End favorite, Bill Tordigione, while Doyle will be paired with Henry Jordan, the Philadelphia battler who just recently staged a great showing against Ike Williams.

McDaniels, in arriving in Boston, left little doubt in the minds of the fans that he'd be shooting for a quick knockout. He has signed a contract for a match in New York early next month, possibly against Tippy Larkin, and he'll be taking no chances with Tordigione.
